

R.C.N. Paediatric Urology/Continence Special Interest Group

Continence even today continues to be a taboo subject.
Children and their carers are often faced with the social stigma from being wet with limitations to their child's social integration.

Background

The group was established 1996 with its initial aim of uniting nurses in specialist urological centres across the UK in order that they had a forum to share information and ideas, and enhance their current practice.

Today our group membership as been drawn from both the acute and the community services with the much needed expansion of children's community continence teams

Aim

To provide mutual support nationally and internationally.

To establish strong links with other, similar, professional groups.

To improve and promote urological and continence management.

To raise political awareness of the needs of the children in our care.

National&International Links

Strong links have been formed with nurses across Europe with the European Society of Paediatric Urology Nurses annual meeting and conference.
